

Title: Setting Timeout Options for Remote Desktop Connections

Subtitle: Dedicated Windows

Author: Jane83

Date: 2008/3/3

URL: <http://www.powerhoster.com/domainhosting/modules/article/view.article.php/c11/1638>

Keywords: Remote Desktop

You can set the maximum amount of idle time allowed for remote desktop connections. To Set Timeout Options for Remote Desktop Connections From your computer's Start menu, point to Programs, point to Admin Tools, and then click Terminal Services Configuration. In the right pane of the window, click RDP-Tcp. Click the Sessions tab. Specify the values you want to use.